Joshua Everett
Software Developer

SUMMARY

My life-long passion for creating, communicating, and innovating enables me to be a valuable and effective asset. As a self-taught software developer, I thrive on efficiently learning new things and solving challenging technical problems. I am transitioning into a career in software by combining my strong work ethic with collaborative agile principles. My real world work experiences enable me to add positivity, constructive discourse, patience, and a unique perspective to a high functioning team. I'm eager to contribute value to a growing, innovative, and collaborative company.
